

Sharp introduces the SuperSteam™ Oven – more than just a microwave

Sharp Corporation has been at the forefront of innovative technology for almost 100 years and continues the tradition by introducing new technology into Australian kitchens with the launch of the Sharp AX-1500JS SuperSteam™ Oven.

Catering for those wanting to lead healthy, active lives, the SuperSteam™ Oven is more than just a microwave. The AX1500JS not only offers health benefits but a new cooking technology that revolutionises the way food is cooked.

SuperSteam™ Convection technology works by combining superheated steam and convection heat. Steam is superheated to approximately 300 °Celsius before being combined with a convection heating system to ensure optimal cooking and exceptionally moist and flavourful results. It enables healthier meal preparation as food can be made crisp and tasty without using oil. The innovative cooking method also helps to reduce salt, calories and fat content while retaining vitamin C nutrients.

Designed for ultimate cooking convenience this countertop oven will make it deliciously easy for consumers to improve their eating habits.

The versatile AX-1500JS offers the benefits of SuperSteam™ cooking through roasting, grilling and baking. It also features three other cooking methods - Convection, Steam and Microwave.

This four in one appliance not only provides an exciting new and healthy way to cook but will also complement any modern kitchen and home with its sleek design and stainless steel fascia. Its space saving design combined with its convenience of multiple cooking methods all in a single appliance is an ideal solution for smaller kitchens but can also accommodate the demands of a health conscious family.

The AX-1500JS incorporates an intelligent operating system that displays directions on a large LCD display. Consumers can choose from 42 settings that automatically determine the correct time, temperature and cooking method for a selection of popular foods, such as roast beef, steamed fish, baked potatoes, a variety of vegetables and even convenience foods like dumplings or chicken nuggets.

The oven's unique Complete Meal function uses SuperSteam™ Convection to cook eight different pre-programmed meals conveniently and save time. All menus and recipes have been specially developed in Australia to suit local tastes and ingredients. In addition, Sharp has created a SuperSteam™ cookbook that includes over 50 easy-to-prepare recipes. There is also a guide with optimal cooking methods for a wide variety of foods so users can make the most of the oven's manual settings.

Maximized oven usage can be achieved using the option of two-layer cooking. Two baking trays, a grilling rack and a steam tray serve as perfect cooking aids for the AX-1500JS SuperSteam™ Oven and complete the versatile, healthy cooking experience.

The Sharp AX-1500JS SuperSteam™ Oven is available from September from leading electrical retailers at $1,649 RRP. For further product information and full specifications visit www.sharp.net.au or call 1300 135 530.
