

Sharp French door refrigerators offer more style and choice

Sharp Corporation of Australia has expanded its current French door refrigerator range with the release of two new models SJF602SPBK (602L) and SJF653SPSSL (653L).

With the addition of these two new models Sharp offers consumers a versatile range from which to choose. The SJF602SPBK has an enriched black stainless steel finish that sets it apart from the rest of the range, whilst the SJF653SPSSL stainless steel model blends easily with any kitchen décor.

Improved cosmetic features include a stylish silver trim on the tempered glass shelves and an elegant long pole handle in stainless steel. For increased customer convenience the refrigerator interior is illuminated with LED lighting and the external blue LCD display allows users to customise functions to their preferred settings.

Sharp French Door refrigerators incorporate an innovative Hybrid Cooling System which incorporates an aluminium panel chilled to 0°C, located at the rear of the refrigerator compartment. The panel's chilled air is spread evenly throughout the compartment minimising loss of food quality by helping to prevent excessive dryness, uneven cooling and over-cooling. An inbuilt nano-deodoriser helps to maintain food quality and freshness. It does this by using a special deodorising filter to reduce unpleasant or strong food odours as the air circulates inside the refrigerator, resulting in a fresher and cleaner fragrance.

Another useful feature is Sharp's exclusive Plasmacluster Ion system which releases positive and negative ions from vents inside the refrigerator to help reduce bacteria and airborne mould spores, this helps to keep food fresh for longer storage periods.

All models feature four doors with a practical and spacious interior to improve storage options. The double-door refrigerator compartment is located above the spacious freezer drawer in an 'upside down' configuration offering a more practical use of space.

Featuring a generous 770mm internal shelf width in the refrigerator section, storage of wide items such as party platters, storage containers and prepared dishes is made possible. The tempered glass shelves with silver trim can easily be height adjusted to accommodate tall items such as birthday cakes and other difficult to store items. The lower refrigerator compartment is subdivided into convenient drawer-type cases that help maintain the crispness and freshness of fresh fruit and vegetables.

The well-designed two-door freezer compartment allows convenient access with drawer-type storage cases. The split door design improves efficiency as one section can be opened at a time, reducing cold air loss. Other features include express freezing/ice making function, holiday mode, timer, door alarm and child lock.

Sharp's new French door refrigerator range is available now at leading electrical retailers and priced at RRP $4,399 for the 653L SJF653SPSS and RRP $4,179 for the 602L SJF602SPBK.
